

FINE ARTS

You love to paint, draw, sculpt, and take photographs. But being a fine artist is much more than going through the motions. It's about finding your own way of seeing and experiencing the world and mastering the techniques to share your vision. Within the interdisciplinary RMCAD philosophy, Fine Arts students study ceramics, painting, sculpture, printmaking, and photography and video art. Throughout the course curriculum, students are challenged to pursue their artistic vision through a variety of media.

By the time you graduate with your fine arts degree, you'll be an active participant in the world of art. RMCAD students attend gallery openings, meet and discuss ideas and concepts with national artists and designers through the Visiting Artist, Scholar and Designer program, and have experience showing work in professional exhibitions.

PROGRAM OUTCOMES

Program outcomes can be found in the RMCAD Academic Catalog and serve the Institutional Learning Outcomes. These are Rocky Mountain College of Art + Design's overarching goals and competencies, which include: cultural competence, communication competence, design competence, and critical thinking. In addition to meeting program outcomes, students enrolled in Fine Arts will also fulfill requirements in Liberal Arts and Foundations.
